The B. & O. Transfer.

It is believed by some Alexandrians that the barge of the B. & O. R. R. Co. will soon be running again between this city and the city of Washington. The merchants in this city are making every effort to that end, as prevailing conditions are unsatisfactory to them. Since the depot and general yards have been moved so far away in not only takes up so much time in hauling goods to be assigned to their destination, but the roads are in a miserable condition outside the city limits for heavy loads. During the coming winter they will, of course, become worse. The engineer and fireman of the tugboat Breverton are still on duty, although the boat has been laid up for several weeks.

The Strand.

The suggestion made in this column several days ago that the time had arrived for the improvement of the strand is, it is said, about to be acted upon. The city now has on hand many cobblestones which have been removed from certain squares where vitrified bricks have been laid, and they could be used in making a substantial roadway on the river front. A movement with this end in view is said to be on foot. A substantial roadway would add materially to the value of all property facing the river.

Suspicious Negro.

For several nights recently a strange negro has been acting suspiciously in the southwestern section of the city by intercepting young white girls who happened to be moving about the neighborhood. Last night, it is said, he suddenly emerged from an alley and endeavored to take hold of a young woman who was passing at the time. It was learned by Chief Goods today that the young woman had been seized by a drunken negro, and that she ran to keep him from falling against her.

Damaging Door Bells.

Some young people have recently been amusing themselves at the expense of people living on north Washington street by putting out of service electric bells at the front doors of residences. Pins are driven beside the electric buttons, rendering it impossible to use the same until the pins are removed. This causes considerable trouble, and it is often necessary to secure the services of a mechanic. The city law provides for a fine of $5 for defacing or injuring property.

Police Court.

[Justice H. B. Caton presiding.] The cases before the Police Court this morning were unimportant. A negro was charged with stealing a carpet from a resident of south Royal street. He pleaded guilty and was sent to jail for six months. A white man was cited to appear and answer a charge of assault. He failed to appear and forfeited his collars. Another white man, charged with using abusive language, was dismissed.

Railway Notes.

It is said at the Southern Railway depot that the machinery recently removed from the shops in this city to Monroe will be returned and replaced in position. The machinery has not been put in position at Monroe. Comparatively few freight cars are now on the tracks in the Southern and Washington Southern yards in this city. They are gradually being removed to the Potomac yards north of this city.

Book Social.

The book social given in the Sunday school room of the M. E. Church South last night was well-attended and greatly enjoyed by all present. Miss Anna Summers, librarian of the Epworth League, conducted the social, and the interesting programme which had been prepared was well received, all who took part in the exercises having acquitted themselves creditably.

Divorce Granted.

In the Circuit Court for the City today Judge C. E. Nicol presiding, in the case of Julia R. Anderson vs. Frank E. Anderson, a decree of absolute divorce was granted the plaintiff on statutory grounds.

Circuit Court for the City.

[Judge C. E. Nicol presiding.]

After being out for several hours last night the jury in the case of J. Louis Loose against the Southern Railway Company failed to agree on a verdict. At 12:30 o'clock this morning the jurors were adjourned over till 10 a. m. This morning the jury was again sent to their room and at 12:30 o'clock having failed to agree were discharged. It is understood that the jury stood equally divided. The case has occupied the attention of the court since Tuesday last. The action was a suit in which the plaintiff sought to recover damages in the sum of $20,000, for injuries alleged to have been sustained to his plants and greys houses by smoke and cinders from the machine shops and engines of the defendant company.

J. A. Marshall vs. Farmers' and Mechanics' Savings Bank; decree confirming report of Commissioner Fendall and directing the payment at the ninth dividend to the creditors entitled thereto, on or before January 1, 1907.

Court adjourned for the term.

Mildred and Rouclere Co.

At the Opera House, Monday night, a decidedly clever entertainment will be given by the Mildred Rouclere Co. This company is well known in Alexandria, as it has appeared in this city for several years past. Mildred, in her strange presentation entitled Mildredism, with many new features, will illustrate her telepathic power by tests and feats in mind-reading that are astounding, explaining, and challenge explanation. Blindfolded, she will read from any page of any book held by some one in the audience, tell the value and date of a coin in your hand, numbers on bank bills, correctly name scores of articles in possession of the audience, describe and discover stolen and lost property, locate lost friends and do many other unexplainable things. Anybody in the audience may write the name of a celebrity, or well known local character, conceal the paper but keep their mind on what's written, and Mildred will not only give the name, occupation and address correctly but cause a counterpart, a living likeness of the party in question, to appear momentarily upon the stage.

Personal.

Mr. Wm. Rogers, who has recently been seriously ill at his home, corner of King and Cameron streets, is out again. Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Cogan entertained at dinner last evening Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Boswell, of Washington, and Mrs. Charles Ruth, of Philadelphia.

Baltimore American.

Earl Burgess Company.

The Earl Burgess Company will present at the Opera House this evening a comedy drama in four acts, "How Women Run Men." The play is well written from a beautiful story of western life. The many scenes give great opportunity for forceful dramatic action, each and every member fitting the part in which they have been assigned. The comedy is very bright and is intermingled throughout the entire play, which makes it very interesting to lovers of pure comedy and melodrama. The vaudeville features will be changed at this performance. The managers of the company and the Opera House will present to a person seated on the lower floor a ton of the best coal.

Property Sales.

Mr. Richard Gibson has sold to Judge C. E. Nicol, the property at the northeast corner of King and Washington streets for $12,500.

Capt. B. F. Knox sold at auction today for J. R. Caton, trustee, a house and lot of ground 45x63 feet with one frame and one brick building thereon, situated on the west side of Fairfax between Princess and Oronoco streets, to Old Dominion Perpetual Building Association for $700 cash.

Funeral.

The funeral of the late George Richards, who died early yesterday morning, took place this afternoon from the residence of Mr. William Demaine, on King street, Rev. Charles D. Bull, of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and Rev. J. H. S. Ewell, of the Methodist Protestant Church, officiated. The pallbearers were Messrs. S. H. Lunt, J. Carlin Richards, Morris Wilkins, W. H. Demaine and Windsor W. Demaine.

The Market.

The market this morning showed no new features from those of last Saturday. The supply was about the same and prices generally had not varied. Eggs, however, were scarce. They were selling at 35 cents a dozen, but some countrymen early in the day were holding them at 40 cents.

Declined the Call.

Rev. Mr. Squires, pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Bristol, Va., who, about a month ago, was called to the Second Presbyterian Church in this city, has, it is understood, declined to accept the call.

When Bernhardt Was Fooled.

Sarah Bernhardt once fell victim to a sudden attack of homesickness while she was traveling in eastern Europe. She announced that she was going back to Paris immediately. Bucharest was the next city on the route and Bernhardt's impresario at once sent the following telegram to his advance agent, who was then in the Roumanian capital: "Wire me immediately as follows: 'Nobility and leaders society preparing magnificent reception. Minister of fine arts will be represented station. Torchlight procession, massed bands. Wire exact hour arrival.' This telegram was duly sent and the impresario showed it to the actress, who forgot her homesickness in view of the magnificent reception awaiting her. When they arrived there were sixty solemn gentlemen in evening dress, with many decorations, on the platform, there were torches, flags and flowers, massed bands played the "Marseillaise" and the triumphal procession started for the hotel. "Are you not coming with us?" said the impresario to his advance agent, who showed signs of remaining at the station instead of going to the hotel. "No," he said. "I must look after the nobility and leaders of society. I am afraid they will bolt with their dress clothes." But the actress, so the story goes, never guessed that the sixty great men at the station were superseded by the advance agent at 38 cents a head.

Life Saving at Fire.

If lives are in danger at a fire it is a universal rule that life saving takes precedence over fire fighting. If fire escapes are lacking or seriously obstructed all hands devote their entire energies to the work of rescuing by raising ladders, by forcing a passage through smoke filled hallways or by other emergency means. Life nets are spread and held ready for those who have not the nerve to wait for their rescuers. Life saving consumes valuable time which could be applied to advantage in fighting the flames, and the probable necessity for expending this time, governed as it is by many considerations, plays an important part in studies of underwriters. Occasionally pomper ladders or window scaling ladders are used in emergencies for making rescues. These furnish thrilling incidents for the newspapers, but are less efficient, slower and a great deal more dangerous both to the firemen and the rescued than the plain or extension ladders.—Insurance Engineering.
